

Youth Violence is Preventable: Spread the Word with Thunderclap

For National Youth Violence Prevention Week, join CDC and partners to spread the message that together we can prevent youth violence.

Sign up on Thunderclap to share a message and resource on Facebook or Twitter. This one-time message will automatically post from your account on Thursday, April 6, 2017 at noon EDT.

This collective message blast will amplify our voices, helping more people and groups across social media understand that youth violence is a public health problem that can and must be prevented.

Everyone can help stop youth violence before it starts. Learn how you and your community can help young people grow up safe. Join the movement.

Spread Promo Image

Click on an icon to share the promotional image below on social media.

Learn More

- CDC: Youth Violence Prevention
- CDC: A Comprehensive Technical Package for the Prevention of Youth Violence and Associated Risk Behaviors
- CDC: Preventing Youth Violence: Opportunities for Action
- VetoViolence: Striving to Reduce Youth Violence Everywhere

