The Teen Dating Violence Summit is a kick-off for Teen Dating Violence Awareness Month (February). There will be sessions for teens and their parents/chaperones/leaders to learn about the red flags of dating violence, how to intervene in abusive situations, and how to make healthy choices. The attendees will be able to take these lessons back to their communities/organizations/schools around the state.

MCADV is partnering with several programs and agencies around the state, including domestic violence shelter programs, to provide the most comprehensive (and fun!) summit possible.
